

Education Secretary Alan Johnson recently referred to higher education as an “essential pit stop in the Grand Prix of life.”

The Greater Merseyside and West Lancashire Lifelong Learning Network (LLN) is playing a vital role in improving access to higher education for EVERYONE by providing vocation qualifications to benefit employers and employees.

Working in partnership with Edge Hill University, the University of Liverpool, the Open University and numerous further education colleges across the region, the LLN provides access to full-time, part-time and short course qualifications in a range of subject areas including:

- Health and Social Care
- Creative Industries
- Tourism, Hospitality, Sport and Active Leisure
- Financial Services
- Other areas are also currently being developed.

To find out how you can make the most out of the educational pit-stop in life and progress your career prospects or those of your employees, contact the LLN team or your local FE college for further details.
